STINGER FOOTBALL: A PROGRAM DEDICATED TO EXCELLENCE

PAT SHEAHAN
Head Coach

Concordia's commitment to football excellence began with the Loyola Warriors in 1915. While the game has changed since then, Concordia's ability to offer quality education in combination with elite athletic competition has not. The Stingers became a member of the Ontario-Quebec Interuniversity Football Conference in 1975 and have fielded competitive teams ever since. The late seventies and early eighties produced some particularly strong clubs, with the 1982 squad winning the OQIFC championship and playing in the national semi-finals.

While the team is very proud of the number of players it has sent to the professional ranks, it is prouder still of its academic record. To date, a remarkably high percentage of Stinger players have received their degrees from Concordia. This aspect of the Concordia experience remains critically important to the team, because when the cleats are put away for the last time, the athlete needs more than memories to fall back on – he needs an education.

By fielding hard-hitting, disciplined and offensively creative teams, Concordia Head Coach Pat Sheahan looks forward to bringing national acclaim to the Stinger football program in the 1990's. Sheahan's acceptance of the coaching position with the Stingers at the start of the 1989/1990 season marked a "homecoming" of sorts. His previous association with the team was as a player. In all, Pat contributed five memorable years to the program; two of them as team captain.

As a performer, Sheahan was known for his knowledge of the game and dogged determination. Recruited by the Stingers as a quarterback, he went on to play every position on the line, including tight end. It was this versatility that led to his signing by the Edmonton Eskimos in both 1980 and 1981.

Prior to joining the Stingers, Sheahan spent 11 years in various elite coaching positions, fielding winning teams wherever he went. His most notable success came in 1987 when he coordinated the offence that led to McGill University's National Championship.

CONCORDIA GRADUATES IN THE C.F.L.

The Concordia football program and its predecessor Loyola have produced some outstanding student-athletes who continue to make their mark after leaving the west-end campus. Graduates of the program have continued to excel in various endeavors, not the least of which is the C.F.L.

Brian Marcil, a 1971 Loyola graduate who captained the 1969 squad, was named to the All-Canadian team en route to being drafted by the C.F.L.'s Montreal Alouettes. After a season with the Als Brian was traded to the Calgary Stampeders where he spent four years. The highlight of his professional career came in 1971 when he helped the Stampeders to a Grey Cup victory.

Larry Tittle

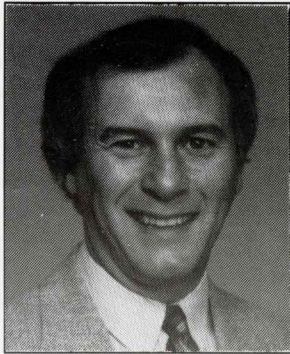

Larry Tittle is another former Loyola player who has enjoyed success in the C.F.L. The 6'2", 220 lb offensive lineman enrolled in Loyola College in 1972 and graduated from Concordia in 1975 with a Bachelor of Economics. Drafted by Calgary, Larry spent four years with the Stampeders before finishing his career with the Ottawa Roughriders.

Nick Benjamin made Concordia history in 1985 when he became the first overall draft pick for the C.F.L. Ottawa Roughriders. The former two-time All-Canadian justified the selection by being named the Eastern Conference Rookie of the Year. Nick was traded to the Winnipeg Blue Bombers where he continues to be a mainstay on their offensive line.

Concordia Today

BOB PHILIP
Athletic Director

From its founding institutions, Loyola College and Sir George Williams University, Concordia inherited a long history of providing higher education to men and women of all ages and backgrounds. Today, Concordia is proud to continue this tradition by offering a university experience that combines some of the most exciting and innovative education in North America with highly competitive athletics.

Concordia offers low student-teacher ratios, excellent and accessible professors and the diversity of two distinct campuses.

Quality coaching and a dedication to the development of student athletes carries on a proud athletic tradition that has spanned ten decades.

Combining high performance athletics with academics requires hard work and discipline. However, the rewards are great. You will leave Concordia University not only with a quality education but also with the motivation, dedication and work habits essential for future successes.

If you are serious about learning and are willing to make the commitment needed for athletics, then Concordia University is where you want to be.

Admissions

Concordia's academic department and associated institutes are grouped into four faculties: ARTS AND SCIENCE, COMMERCE AND ADMINISTRATION, ENGINEERING AND COMPUTER SCIENCE and FINE ARTS. Together they offer more than 180 academic programs leading to 8 undergraduate, 7 graduate and 15 doctoral degrees. Some programs are quite traditional, while others reflect the university's innovative response to society's changing needs.

The admission information listed below is general in nature. For a more detailed account of the University's specific admission requirements and procedures please contact:
